Background

This policy outlines the Australian Diabetes Educators Association (ADEA) policy for the voluntary suspension of ADEA membership and CDE status.

In 2017, the ADEA Board approved the following criteria for extended leave from work and return to work as a CDE. The Board appreciates that there are a number of circumstances where members may request to have their membership or CDE status voluntarily suspended.

This document outlines:

- the situations where a member can apply to have their membership suspended for a period of time
- the situations where a member can suspend their Credentialed Diabetes Educator (CDE) status
- the requirements for suspending CDE status and requirements for undertaking continual professional development (CPD) during extended periods of leave.

Voluntary Suspension of Full Membership Status

A Member, who is not a CDE, can request that their full membership status be suspended for a period of twelve months without penalty in the following situations:

- Maternity or extended sick leave
- The care and support of a parent, child, or significant other
- Study leave
- Extended travel
- Long Service Leave

For periods greater than 12 months the member can:

- Choose to terminate their membership of ADEA and pay the re-joining fee when they wish to join again as a member OR
- Choose to take out an associate membership for the period of leave that can be upgraded to full membership at any time without the need to pay a re-joining fee.

Voluntary Suspension of Membership and CDE status for Maternity leave, sick leave and other personal leave of less than 1 year

A Member, who is also a CDE, can suspend their membership and CDE status for a period of 1 year or less without penalty and without the need to undertake CPD activities to maintain their CDE status.

CPD points will be allocated respective of the allocated time of leave taken. For example, if six months leave is taken the CDE member will only be required to accumulate half the required CPD points (10 CPD points).

The ADEA suspension request form will need to be completed and the CDE will not be able to practice as a CDE during the suspension time.

Voluntary Suspension of Membership and CDE status for a period of more than 1 year but less than 3 years

A Member, who is also a CDE, can request to suspend their CDE status if they are taking leave of more than 1 year but less than 3 years, without being required to redo the initial credentialling processes if they maintain an Associate membership status.

Prior to returning to work and reinstating their CDE status the member must:

- Up-grade their membership from associate member to full member
- Complete a CPD portfolio including learning goals, learning outcomes and CPD activities for the previous 12 months with evidence of activities
- Pay the usual membership and re-credentialling fees.

Voluntary Suspension of Membership and CDE status for leave greater than 3 years but less than 5 years

A Member, who is also a CDE, can take extended voluntary leave greater than 3 years but less than 5 years without being required to redo the initial credentialling processes if they maintain an associate membership status.

Prior to returning to work and getting their CDE status reinstated the member must:

- Up-grade their membership from associate member to full member
- Complete a CPD portfolio including learning goals, learning outcomes and CPD activities for the previous 12 months with evidence of activities
- Complete a six month mentoring program to be completed before application to remove suspension
- Pay the usual membership and re-credentialling fees.

Suspension of Membership and CDE status greater than five (5) years.

Where a member, who is also a CDE, takes more than 5 years leave from ADEA, the member can choose to either terminate their membership or remain as an associate member of ADEA.

Regardless of membership status if a member has not worked as a CDE for more than five (5) years their CDE status will be terminated and they will need to apply through the initial credentialling process to reinstate their CDE credential.

If after five (5) years a member requests for their CDE status to be reinstated the member will be required to:

- Be a full member of ADEA
- Verify that they have completed 1000 hours of clinical practice in diabetes education and management, 60% of which must be in the twelve months before they submit their application
- Undertake a minimum of six (6) months mentoring with an ADEA mentor to be completed prior to application
- Pay an initial credentialling fee and a membership fee.
- Complete a case study if their qualifications in the Graduate Certificate of Diabetes Education and Management are more than six years old.

Responsibility of Members when applying for Leave

All members requesting a voluntary suspension of their membership or CDE status must, where possible, inform ADEA before taking leave and complete the Application for Voluntary Suspension form clearly stating how long the requested leave is proposed for.

CDEs who suspend their ADEA membership and CDE status must not work as a CDE during the period of suspension.

Responsibility of National Office staff if a member applies to suspend CDE status for more than 12 months

Where a member voluntarily suspends their CDE status for more than 12 months ADEA National Office staff are required to notify Medicare that the member's CDE status has been voluntarily suspended.
