

Consent from participants: Abbott Case Study Competition 2017

ADEA invites applications from all diabetes educators to submit case studies that address contemporary issues in the practice of diabetes care, diabetes education and self-management involving the use of either a flash blood glucose monitoring and/or ambulatory glucose profile or a continuous blood glucose monitoring and/or ambulatory glucose profile.

This consent form is for the person with diabetes who is identified and discussed in any case studies submitted by their diabetes educator for this competition.

This consent form is for the purpose of granting of a non-exclusive licence to information and materials included in any case studies submitted for this competition.

By submitting this consent form, you agree to the specified terms and conditions set out below. Please read this form carefully before submitting.

Selected case studies might be published via the following channels as part of the competition:

- Print publication available to delegates at the ADS-ADEA Annual Scientific Meeting (written case studies only)
- YouTube playlist available to delegates at the ADS-ADEA Annual Scientific Meeting and ADEA members (video case studies only)
- Online via the ADEA website available to ADEA members (both written and video case studies)
- Oral presentation at the ADS-ADEA Annual Scientific Meeting (both written and video case studies)
- ADE November, ADEA's official online publication available to ADEA members (either written or video case study only)

ADEA and the sponsor will not use the materials for other purposes beyond this competition.

ADEA and the sponsor will not use the materials in a manner that may be deemed adverse or defamatory to the person submitting this form.

ADEA and the sponsor will not use the materials for any political or commercial gain.

If you have any questions, please contact ADEA on (02) 6287 4822.

Please complete this consent form by 9am Tuesday 18 April 2017.

In the submitted case study, you will be de-identified. Your details below will be kept only for internal record and will be treated confidentially.
