

Invitation

Dear colleague

I am Alan Crouch, a Senior Research Fellow at the University of Melbourne Department of Rural Health. I request that you please consider this invitation to contribute to an on-line survey (or mail-out paper version if preferred) on the influence to your professional practice of any Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander cultural awareness training event that you have attended. If you have never attended such an event, please disregard this request.

The purpose of this survey, as an element of a wider study, is to investigate the practice intentions of health professionals and students who have ever participated in a cultural awareness training event anywhere in Australia. If you have participated in such an event, the research team invites you to take part in this survey. This should require approximately twenty (20) minutes of your time. Your responses will be anonymous. There will be a plain language statement of the project activities available on the survey link (or in the mail-out package if you select this option), to assist your decision to participate. If, after reading the Plain Language Statement you do not wish to participate, please simply ignore this request.

By following the link provided (or by providing a mailing address to the named researcher below) and completing the survey anonymously, you are giving your consent to participate in the study. The research team looks forward to receiving your completed survey responses.

Thank you for your kind consideration of this invitation.
